Dear ,

Dreaming of travelling again

While current travel maybe on pause and as we collectively stay at home, now is the time to plan those dream trips for when travel normality returns and we can all be together again. This is the time to research new destinations and ways to explore them. Perhaps you are using this time to reflect, looking through photograph albums and reminiscing about past holidays. During these times talking about travel is difficult as there has been disappointment for those that have had to reschedule their plans. However the world will re open again and when that time comes we will want something to look forward to. We will continue to be here for advice and to help with your holiday plans for later in the year and for 2021. Also do check out the blogs on our website for inspiration for future adventures, now is the time to rethink why we travel, how we travel and how we benefit destinations and communities we visit.

One of the consequences of the coronavirus crisis is that holidaymakers will become more discerning in who they book their trips with, considering more carefully the support they might receive should something go wrong. We want to reassure you that we are the trusted people, with knowledge and work with trusted sources and partners. We all need something to look forward to and although life at the moment is far from normal, continue to dream. When doors re-open, we WILL be travelling again and we look forward to booking some memorable holidays - I think we all deserve it! Stay safe, our world is worth the wait.
