At the rate things are going, it's just a matter of time before borders around the world start reopening.

It's never too early to start planning, so here's a selection of destinations that will make your first trip overseas in more than a year a memorable one.

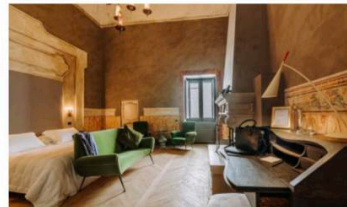

Better start dusting off your passport.

The restaurant helmed by chef Giovanni Ceroni offers traditional dishes from Puglia, such as baccala alla salentina, a salted cod dish, which you can also recreate during a cooking class in the hotel.

NEARBY: Jump into a car and visit Bari for fresh seafood or Lecce for its baroque architecture. Or sail on the hotel's private 10m yacht and sunbathe on the Adriatic Sea.

BONUS TIP: Many items in the hotel are for sale, including furnishings and paintings by artists Adrian Boswell and Cao Graeco. www.paragon700.com

Could sipping a negroni by the Italian coast in Puglia be one of your fantasies? When travel resumes, book a stay at the new luxury hotel, Paragon 700 Boutique Hotel & Spa, which opened in June last year in Puglia.

With only 11 rooms in this restored palace, its whitewashed buildings blend into the hilly towns surrounding the village of Ostuni, making it a great starting point for exploring.

Forget Rome and Milan when you're next in Italy - Puglia and the Paragon 700 is the quiet retreat that you need when the world's borders reopen again.
